Dear David:

When we were looking for a disaster recovery site for our information systems' infrastructure, we evaluated many different options. It was the decision of this organization to select your company five years ago—not only because of the capabilities you were able to articulate to us but also the personality of your team. Your team has the "Can Do" attitude that really fits hand-in-hand with our mantra.

Now that five years have passed, we don't even think about your organization's ability to deliver. We think of your team as true partners to Omni Air International.

We wanted to say thank you for your past performance, flexibility and ability to deliver results in any scenario.

We are looking forward to a continued relationship with your team.

Best regards,
